Car wash OK'd

By MICHAEL DANIELS

The Bethel Planning Board last week unanimously approved plans for a three-bay car wash on Cross Street.

The car wash will be located on Danny Davis' property behind the Mountain View Mall. Plans call for one drive-through bay and two self-service bays, one outside for trucks.

Davis told the board he hoped to begin construction as soon as possible.

Yates request for trial denied

By WENDY HANSCOM

Augusta Yates' request for a trial in her case against SAD 44 has been denied.

Yates' appeal will be heard instead by an Oxford County Superior Court judge.

In June, Yates filed a legal appeal of the SAD 44 board of directors' decision to uphold her three-day suspension for fighting on a school bus.

No date has been set for the appeal hearing. Court Clerk Donna Howe said last week the court is waiting for final paperwork from SAD 44 before scheduling the hearing.

Yates was suspended April 13 for the fight, which occurred in Febru-

Chapman charged with murder

By LIZ CHAPMAN and
LISA WILLIAMS ACKLEY

David E. Chapman of Gillead was arrested on a charge of murder Thursday, based on a police affidavit that he told his girlfriend he was angry with neighbor Richard "Richie" Hutchins and later said he was dead.

Chapman was denied bail Monday by District Court Judge John Sheldon and remains in custody at the Oxford County jail.

The body of Hutchins, 28, was discovered Oct. 9 near his home, with a gunshot wound to the chest, according to investigators.

Police recovered Chapman's single-shot 12-gauge shotgun from behind Chapman's girlfriend's home on the Northwest Bethel Road, where he lived. A firearms examiner has matched the weapon to a spent shell casing found near Hutchins' body, according to the document that led to issuance of the arrest warrant. Pellets recovered from the body are number 8 Winchester shot, the same size and brand as the casing found, the affidavit notes.

Chapman was arrested on the murder charge early Thursday afternoon at the Oxford County Jail in South Paris by Maine State Police Detective Richard Pickett.

On Oct. 9, the 38-year-old mill worker was arrested on a probation violation after a 2 1/2 hour stand off with Oxford County Sheriff's Department deputies at his girlfriend's trailer. Police had been called to the area to investigate a complaint of gunshots fired in the neighborhood. The 2 a.m. call was followed by Chapman's arrest at 5:30 a.m.

Chapman's probation prohibits him from consuming alcohol.

Judge Sheldon told Chapman Monday at his arraignment that he would be indicted by an Oxford County grand jury and then arraigned on the murder charge in Superior Court.

Assistant Attorney General William Stokes represented the state during Thursday's proceeding.

Chapman admitted in court Thursday he violated his probation, which surprised Sheldon.

Chapman's court-appointed attorney, John Jenness of Paris, quickly added, "We'll be admitting violation of probation for failure to abstain from use of alcohol. That's the only thing we're admitting," Jenness said.

At Monday's bail hearing, Jenness argued that the state had presented only enough evidence to support a probable cause for manslaughter, a bailable charge.

IN-YOUR-FACE DEBATE--The most heated exchange at Wednesday evening's legislative candidates' forum debate followed the formal presentations, when District 8 Senate opponents Ida Luther, D-Mexico, and Carl Hansen, R-Bethel, meeting for the first time since early in the campaign, clashed over what Luther claimed were "deliberate distortions of my record," while Hansen complained of being "harassed by (Luther's) hacks." Here Hansen points to a campaign finance filing by Luther listing Patrick McTeague of Topson, a prominent workers compensation lawyer, as her campaign manager. Hansen has criticized Luther for voting against the Blue Ribbon Commission's workers compensation reform package. Luther said, however, that the listing of McTeague as her campaign manager was "an error," which was later corrected in her financial report and in paid advertisements. Behind the candidates, John Bayerlein of Bethel listens and learns.

G'wood tax records called incomplete and out of date

By WENDY HANSCOM

Greenwood's current tax assessments are based on sketchy, often incomplete documentation, according to the town's new assessing agent.

If townspeople want a fair tax system, said John O'Donnell, they may have to pay for a thorough reassessment of all properties in town.

Selectman Harry Swan acknowledged that it is possible that taxes throughout the town are not equitable, but because of the poor records there is no way to tell if they are or not.

"I don't think we can really tell if we need a reassessment until we meet with O'Donnell," Swan said. "I was expecting something like this, because we couldn't find anything really current."

"Any time a revaluation is done, you find out some are paying more or less than they should," he said. "At some time in the future, it's going to be up to the taxpayers to decide whether or not there will be a revaluation."

O'Donnell is acting as the town's assessing agent, after townspeople ousted long-term tax assessor Herb Dunham at a special town meeting in June.

Much of the discussion at that meeting focused on Dunham's alleged poor record keeping and his failure to respond to repeated requests from the selectmen to store the records at the town office rather than at his home.

In June, following that meeting, the town hired O'Donnell Associates of Auburn to assess new buildings and additions, but as the company sifted through the town's

Local candidates debate --to nearly empty hall

By MICHAEL DANIELS

All the local candidates were there to be grilled, but only a handful of voters bothered to turn up for last Wednesday's public forum sponsored by the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce.

The seven candidates present spent much of the forum discussing the perilous state of the Maine economy. Compared to the economy other issues, such as abortion, were "down on the list of problems facing Maine," according to Carl Hansen, R-Bethel, a candidate for the District 15 Senate seat.

But while the candidates agreed the state was in sorry economic shape, they differed in identifying the cause of the problem or how to cure it.

High workers compensation costs, taxes and an unduly burdensome regulatory process were the favored targets of the local Republican candidates.

The business climate must be improved if the state is to have any hope of working its way out from under "a tremendous revenue shortfall that will plague us into the next century," said Rep. Al Barth, R-Barth, a candidate for reelection in House District 49.

"We need a more friendly attitude toward business and helping businesses meet those environmental laws," Barth said.

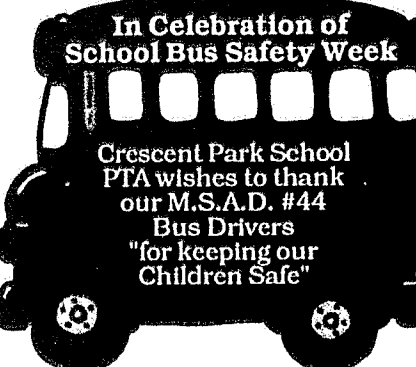

Fellow Republican Hansen agreed, especially in regard to small businesses. "We must work toward creating a positive business climate that encourages the entrepreneurial spirit, fosters job preservation and creation, opens the door for new business and recognizes at long last the importance of small business in Maine's future," Hansen said (in a prepared statement read by his wife Nancy prior to his arrival at the forum).

Dems agree, disagree

The Democrats agreed about the importance of small businesses. "The backbone of the Maine economy has always been small business," said Barth's challenger, Rockie Graham, D-Newry.

But Graham refused to point the finger of blame for Maine's economic woes at environmental regulation. "Good environmental policy makes good economic

GOOD NEWS FOR A CHANGE

To the Editor:

With an emphasis on gloom and tragedy in our news, it is a pleasure to have a story to tell of neighbors, family, and community support.

We moved to Bethel one-and-one-half years ago and just this June began the construction of our first home by the only means we could afford—our own labor. Having some experience, but no industrial tools of our own, we have been given the use of a generator for as long as we need it, staging and planks for as long as we need them, and other assorted specialty tools by our neighbors. With both of us working full-time jobs, my father has voluntarily arrived almost every night after work (and still does) to help, and although I must work every other Saturday, on any given weekend you would find the family members and college friends volunteering their labor and support.

The poor weather this summer has set us significantly behind schedule and our well went far deeper than estimated and broke our budget. Our neighbors took it upon themselves to initiate a volunteer work force through the West Parish Congregational Church in Bethel to work on our roof on Columbus Day—a day we both had to work.

To these people we express our sincere gratitude—you are people who give the words family and community, true meaning, not political mileage. Again we say thank you to Norbert Rose, the Reverends Jean and Brendon Bass and the West Parish Congregational Church, our friends and families, and to Carl and Nancy Hansen and family with whom we look forward to truly being neighbors. We wish everyone in District 8 could know you the way we do. God Bless You All.

On Saturday, Oct. 17, the Telstar Athletic Boosters sponsored a toll booth and bottle drive for the track fund. Combined with the generous donation by Mr. and Mrs. James Fiske, the total for the day was in excess of $900.

Thanks to the toll booth and bottle drive workers and all the contributors for a very successful day.

LIKES FELLOW DEMS

To the Editor:

This year we are presented with a wide range of choices as Election Day approaches.

On the local level, there are some enduring qualities which make a legislator an effective representative for the people of Western Maine. Qualities which come to mind are an understanding of the key issues pertinent to one region, an empathy with the human needs of constituents, and a willingness to work actively and enthusiastically in representing the region in Augusta.

The local Democratic slate of legislative candidates, Rockie Graham for House District 49, Ida Luther for Senate District 8 and Jim Wilfong for Senate District 15, clearly possess these qualities.

Rockie Graham has a great deal of experience in advocacy, local government and education. She is a problem-solver and a consensus-builder; both qualities which are greatly needed in the legislature.

Ida Luther has been a legislator who has not sought to avoid controversial issues; she is fearless in taking on special interests and legislative leadership when it comes to standing up for the interests of the working men and women of her district.

Jim Wilfong was an innovator as a legislator from the Fryeburg area in the 1970s, authoring the Sunset Review Legislation and making it possible to register vehicles locally. He has had a successful business career for the past 15 years and his return to the legislative arena will bring a commanding presence and fresh ideas to the senate.

The upcoming session of the legislature promises to present difficult choices which must be approached with fresh perspectives, persistence and leadership. Rockie Graham, Ida Luther and Jim Wilfong will meet this challenge if we elect them on Nov. 3 to represent Western Maine in Augusta.

KEEP AN EYE ON THEM

To the Editor:

This letter deals with several articles of importance to some people that I know. There were 367 people in Bethel that didn't have any money to pay their taxes. What will it be next year, five hundred?

I wonder how many of these 367 voted for the $8 million "folly" to be built at Crescent Park School. It is my understanding that Crescent Park was a piece of land that the town practically stole from "Ned" Hastings. Check back and see how the town got this piece of land.

Ethel Bisbee, was a place that was good enough for any student, but it was closed for some unknown reason.

Keep an eye on these people. Let's look at the brick grammar school (built for $13,900). The students were taught more in that school than they will learn in any other school in the area.

What happened to the brick school? The pompous boys had it demolished along with 12 other structures on Elm, Church, and Summer streets.

Let's look at Church street. There was a nice cement sidewalk and what happened to it? The selectmen gave it to Gould without a vote of the people.

They in turn tore it up and seeded the ground. They now want to build a new sidewalk—for whose benefit, do you suppose?

I can remember when there was a nice sidewalk from the intersection up to the Dr. John Twaddles place. What happened to it? I think if they dig deep enough they will find it.

There are 16 eating joints in Bethel, and they are all hoping to make a killing from the skiers. I think that some of them are in for a big surprise. A lot of the skiers bring a baloney sandwich with them and after paying a big price for a lift ticket they can't afford to eat in a restaurant. I agree with Ruth Cummings' letter to the editor. Bethel does need something else besides the skiers.

Mention a factory and see them drop to the floor with some sort of a stroke. This happened in 1936 and I don't think things have changed since then.

Let's look at some of these health (scams) claims. The British Journal of Medicine are disputing most of these health claims.

Today if you drink a glass of milk you stand a good chance of dying before morning.

Not too many years ago people were dying by the thousands from cancer and it was caused by eating cranberries. The only harm that sugar will do is to your teeth (Harvard School of Medicine).

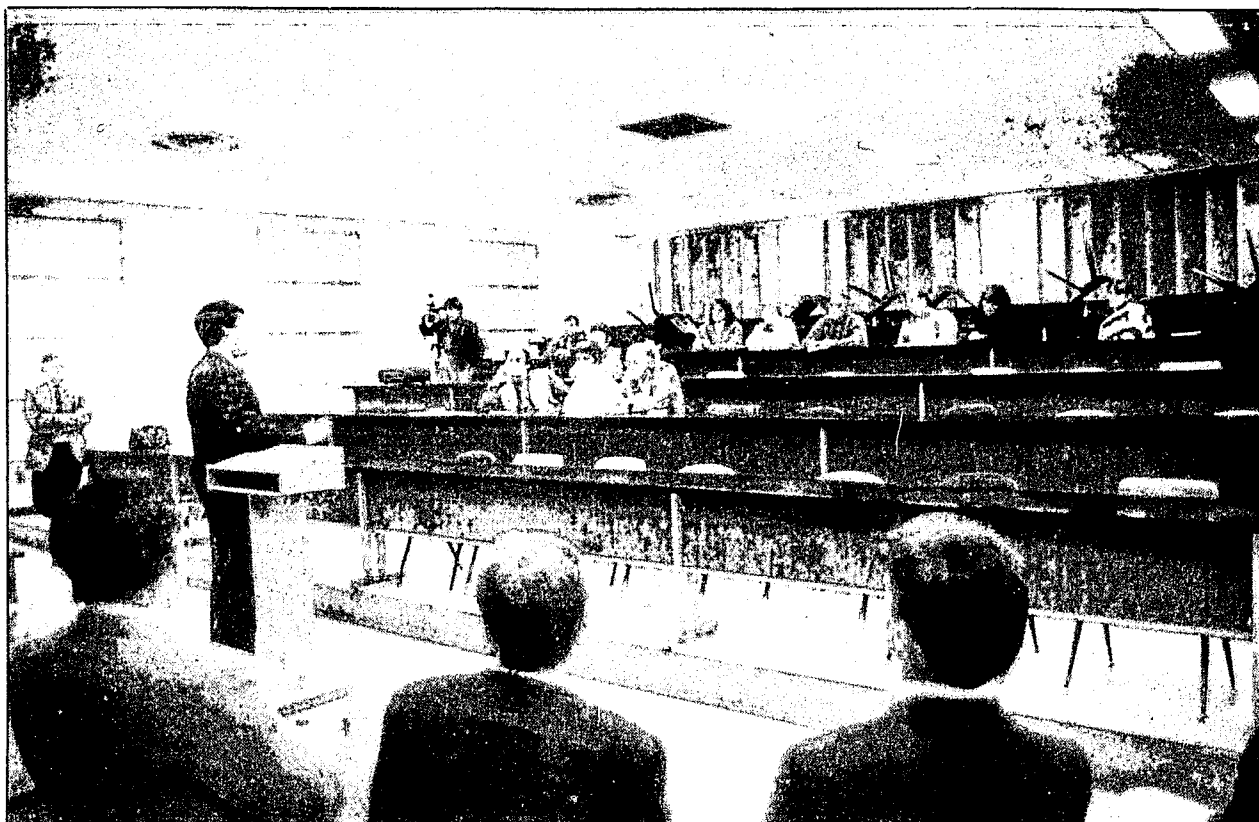

If you bake with white flour it could be fatal.

I believe if we took all the doctors and health experts off TV and out of the newspapers we would all live longer.

FORUM ON LOCAL TV

Local cable television subscribers will be able to view last Wednesday's candidates' forum Tuesday evening, Oct. 27, at 7 p.m. on Channel IV, the public access channel. A videotape of the forum is also available for viewing in the Adult and Community Education Office at Telstar. Anyone wishing to view the tape is asked to call ahead, 824-2780.

THE BALANCE OF LOCAL DEMOCRACY—There were almost as many candidates as audience members at last week's candidates forum sponsored by the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce. State Rep. Rick Bennett, R-Norway, addressing the audience here, is unopposed in his bid for re-election in House District 50. The remaining candidates at the forum were paired off with their opponents in the upcoming election.

Absentee ballots may not count

By MIKE BROWN

Maine citizens, especially servicemen and civilians serving or residing overseas may find that their ballots may not count in the November elections.

The problem, which could be a disfranchisement, relates to absentee ballots. For the first time in its voting history, all the Maine paper ballots for a presidential and/or statewide election were printed out of state.

The bid was won by Bradford & Bigelow of Danvers, Massachusetts, whose bid was $119,861 for the nearly 1.5 million ballots. This company prints ballots for several states including Massachusetts and the City of New York. The only other bid was by J.S. McCarthy Co. of Augusta which has been printing the paper ballots for decades. McCarthy's bid was $190,419 or some $80,000 higher.

Concerning the considerable spread in the two bids, Dep. Secretary of State Gary Cooper said, "We had no choice but accept the low bid." He also said that Maine representatives from his office visited the Danvers office "to make sure they could handle the job" and that the ballot printing information had been received by the Massachusetts printer "in plenty of time to legally fulfill the contract."

However, all absentee ballots were legally late. Most municipalities did not receive their absentee ballots until the end of the second week of October. In Portland, the last of its ballots did not arrive until Oct. 14. State law requires absentee ballots to be in the hands of the 509 Maine municipalities 30 days before election.

Obviously, there will not be enough time for some overseas ballots to be returned in time for the election count.

Some reactions by municipal clerks around the state:

Ellsworth Clerk Fern Kelly received ballots on Oct. 9 and they were mailed out the same day. "My biggest concern is the overseas ballots getting back in time," she said. Ellsworth has approximately 200 absentee ballots for a presidential election.

The Bucksport town clerk's office said "there was no problem and few complaints" about the late ballots. Bucksport counts about 200 absentee ballots. Belfast received its ballots also on Oct. 9. There were a "few" complaints.

In Rockland, Clerk Stuart Sylvester said absentee ballots were received Oct. 9 and there were some complaints about the lateness of ballots. Rockland has about 450 absentee ballots in a general election.

Marge Webber in the Falmouth town clerk's office said ballots came from the state Oct. 9 and "several people" were concerned when they were not available around the first of the month. Falmouth also has about 200 absentee ballots.

Portland normally has requests for about 2,000 absentee ballots out of the approximately 30,000 votes cast in a presidential election. And, according to Eunice Curran of the clerk's office, "we had a lot of complaints about late ballots," she said. "Not only that, but there was a printing error for one of the precinct ballots which had to be reprinted and those corrected ballots were not received in Portland until Oct. 14. We have absentee ballot requests from places like Sri Lanka, Israel and Japan. I don't see how these ballots will be returned in time," said Curran.

Cooper of the State Department said, "We're certainly upset about this lateness on the part of the printer. We have scheduled a meeting in Augusta with the president of Bradford & Bigelow to discuss this problem."

Cooper said that a ballot printer could underestimate the unique situation existing in Maine which has 509 municipalities and over 700 types of ballots "but that does not excuse the company for not fulfilling its contract obligation."

One after-the-fact recourse for Maine would be to invoke the penalty provision which is $500 a day for lateness of ballots. Presumably, considering the situation in Portland, that would amount to $6,300. Cooper said the state "would probably go after the penalty."

(Veteran newsman and columnist Mike Brown writes regularly on the Augusta political scene. His views are his own and do not necessarily reflect those of The Citizen.)

sense," she claimed. "It creates jobs that will last."

She agreed, however, that small businesses need help getting through the regulatory process, as well as tax incentives similar to those given to larger businesses.

In the long run she said, education and job training were the key. "Teenagers need to get invested in a positive way in the community," she said. But she cautioned that "without quality education, Aspirations programs are not going to succeed."

James Wilfong, D-Slow, a candidate for the District 15 Senate seat, offered the evening's most comprehensive plan for strengthening the state's economy, a plan which addressed many of the problems described by the other speakers.

His prescription called for getting Maine's budget house in order, streamlining business and environmental regulations, supporting business with a pool of skilled workers, and creating a capital formation program that would make the state more attractive to large, out-of-state banks.

These things must be done, he said, "Otherwise the State of Maine could be reduced to Third World status in the United States."

As things stand, he said, "No sensible business is going to move into this kind of budget situation and take on the unfunded liabilities that exist (here)."

But fellow Democrat Rep. Ida Luther, D-Mexico, was less optimistic about the potential for positive change through state-level actions. Luther, who is locked with Hansen in an increasingly bitter battle for the District 15 Senate seat (see photo), said: "The recession is national; we're not going to solve it here. I want the jobs from Mexico, Taiwan and China back, and the way to do that is to elect Clinton and Gore."

Augusta big part of the problem None of the Republicans at the forum countered that the way to solve the state's economic problems was to reelect Bush and Quayle, but they did argue that more Republicans in the state legislature would be a step in the right direction.

Rep. Dana Hanley, R-Paris, who is battling Wilfong for the District 15 Senate seat, attempted to present himself as "the unconventional candidate," "the father of term limits," and "the only individual in the Maine House denied a committee assignment," (by Speaker John Marin).

Rep. Rick Bennett R-Norway, who is running uncontested for reelection to the District 50 seat claimed, "The easiest way to end partisan bickering is to elect a Republican majority."

And even Democrat Wilfong agreed it was time for a change in the Maine legislature. "They're fighting like a bunch of juveniles," he said. "It's time for a change of leadership—both Democratic and Republican."

Other issues discussed at Wednesday's forum included abortion, campaign financing, state spending on tourism promotion, and science vs. constituency. The forum will be broadcast Tuesday evening on Public Access Channel IV (see box).

Board grants permits

The Bethel selectmen Monday night approved liquor license and entertainment permit applications for the Sudbury Inn and a liquor license for the Four Seasons Inn.

The approvals followed public hearings at which no one attended to question either of the establishments' permits.

A third public hearing originally planned for Monday, on proposed parking ordinance changes, was not posted in time and was put off until the selectmen's next meeting on Nov. 2.

In other business at Monday's very brief meeting, Arlan Jodrey, chairman of the selectmen complained about the placement of curbing on Clark and Vernon streets.

Town Manager Madeleine Henley said later she was looking into the matter with the town's contractor and engineering consultant.

ENDORSEMENT—Retiring State Sen. Jeff Mills, D-Rumford, has endorsed Rockie Graham, D-Newry, for the House District 49 seat currently held by Al Barth, R-Bethel. Mills held the seat until his election to the State Senate in 1990. (Photo by Kirk Seigel)

Mills endorses Graham

State Sen. Jeff Mills last week gave his support to House District 49 candidate Rockie Graham. "We need a person with vision and the ability to solve problems," said Mills, who served several terms as the district's representative and as state senator. "Rockie knows the issues facing the district and will get things done in Augusta."

U.S. Senate Majority Leader George Mitchell is also expected to lend his support to the Rockie Graham campaign on Sunday, Oct. 25, at a reception for Graham at the Hammons House on Broad Street in Bethel from 2:30 to 4 p.m. The suggested contribution is $25, and the public is welcome. Further information may be obtained by calling 824-3427.

Oxford County Democrats meet

The Oxford County Democratic Party held its last meeting before the Nov. 3 elections on Oct. 13 at Telstar High School in Bethel. The nuts and bolts of campaigning were reviewed by local candidates and county officials were in high spirits as they sensed the possibility of victory in the upcoming elections.

It was announced that State Senatorial candidate Jim Willfong's headquarters were planning a grand opening on Saturday, Oct. 17 in Norway, which will become a center for county elections and for a strong "get out the vote" drive in the closing weeks of the campaign.

State Rep. Ida Luther didn't want to speculate on her chances for winning the state senate, but all those present indicated that they felt she was running strong.

Everyone agreed this might finally be a Democratic year, especially after their successful fundraising efforts and warm voter reception at the Fryeburg Fair.

Rockie Graham, candidate for the state house, said her efforts had been exhausting, but highly satisfying. County Chair Warren Richardson parceled out lawn signs, T-shirts, posters, buttons and bumper stickers and invited one and all to a "big bash" at Willfong headquarters on the night of Nov. 3. "I think we're going to be drinking champagne that night," he said.

"We've been looking forward to this night for a long time," he said.

From the Bethel Police log:

Night riders not hunters; refrigerator vanishes

Bethel police responded at 1:20 a.m. Sunday to a complaint of possible night hunting in the corn field between the Riverview Motel and the Androscoggin River. Police checked the area, found nothing and called the Game Warden Service. While waiting for a warden, police saw lights coming out of the woods. Two mountain bikers told police they had been riding in the field. No weapons were found on the two men. They were warned about law regarding night illumination of a field during hunting season.

Saturday, Richard Wright reported a stray rotweiler hanging around his home. Police asked several neighbors about the dog, but no owner was found. Police contacted Buster Gaudreau, who agreed to pick up and hold the dog until its owner is found.

In other police news last week, on Wednesday, a Paradise Road women told police she was receiving harassing phone calls from a juvenile. Police told her if she wanted a trap installed on her telephone to contact her telephone company.

After receiving a complaint late Thursday night of loud subjects at the Mountain View Store, police asked two men to move off the store's steps and go home.

Police backed up the Oxford County Sheriff's office at the scene of a domestic dispute in Hanover late Friday night.

A Four Season's Inn employee reported a group of loud juveniles Saturday evening at Carmela's on Main Street. Police reported that the group was sitting at a picnic table eating, talking loudly and making lewd gestures at each other. The juveniles complained that every time they sat at the table the police are called. Police told them if they quiet down and stop making the gestures, the calls would probably stop.

Sunday police were told that a vehicle had struck a guard rail and a light pole in West Bethel. No vehicle was found at the scene. Police Chief Dale Bellman said the pole is nearly broken in half. Anyone with any information about the accident should contact Bethel police, Bellman said.

On Monday, a Middle Intervale resident reported receiving harassing phone calls. Police agreed to ask the subject to stop calling the house.

A Main Street resident reported Monday morning the theft of a refrigerator from her home. Police are still investigating the theft.

Tuesday, police responded to a report of a vehicle off the road near Route 26 south of Bethel. Mike Hart told police his brother Adam was driving the vehicle on an ATV trail near the road when it got stuck.

U.S. House candidates on TV

MAINEWATCH, Maine Public Television's weekly program providing insight into Maine issues and concerns, joins public television's Election '92 coverage with two MAINEWATCH congressional debates.

Veteran moderator and host Angus King will preside. All candidates for both congressional districts have been invited to participate. Candidates for the First District seat in the House of Representatives meet in Maine Public Television Studios Oct. 22 at 8 p.m.; candidates for the Second District seat meet Oct. 29 at 8 p.m.

MAINEWATCH Producer Bill Maroldo says: "MAINEWATCH is a program of issues and debate. We've structured our congressional debate specials to give insight into how the candidates in both districts think."

The familiar MAINEWATCH format will be used during the debates; field reports will open each program. For both congressional debates, the field reports provide a personal look at each candidate. The reports are produced in cooperation with Producer John Greenman.

Following the field report, Angus King will interview each candidate in a one-on-one situation. The last half-hour of the program will be devoted to the actual debates.

Both MAINEWATCH debates will air in simulcast on Maine Public Radio and will repeat on the following Sundays at 6 p.m. on Maine Public Radio.

A perspective on the presidential race will be offered Oct. 26 at 9 p.m. when Maine Public Television broadcasts Pursuit of The Presidency: A Conversation in Maine. Political strategists Ann Lewis (Democrat) and David Keene (Republican) analyze the Election '92 campaigns on the campus of Bates College. Angus King will moderate the discussion.

Social workers endorse Graham

The Maine Chapter, N.A.S.W., which consists of over 930 social workers statewide, is endorsing Rockie Graham for House District #49.

NASW has carefully evaluated the candidates running for office in this district and has determined that Rockie Graham best represents the positions held by social work professionals in this state. Such positions include: affordable and accessible health care for all Maine citizens; a continuum of human services for Maine's needy citizens; conversion of defense related industries to peacetime functions without disruption of employment opportunities; and support for a woman's right to make her own reproductive choices.

The decision to support Graham was based upon a careful review of the candidate's positions and philosophy, according to NASW officials.

For further information concerning NASW Maine Chapter's positions on human services issues and public policy statements, the chapter office may be contacted at 622-7592.

Records

records, holes began to appear, O'Donnell said.

"The records that we received from Dunham seemed to be out of date and incomplete," O'Donnell said. "We took what the properties were valued at and added to it for new construction. If we were put in a position where we had to deal with these people and explain what their assessment is based on, there really isn't anything to go over with them."

It is up to the selectmen to decide what to do about the incomplete records, O'Donnell said, now that the new additions and constructions have been assessed.

"Now they can sit down and look at what they have and decide if they want to rely on that," he said. "They may want to establish new records and get new evaluations on everyone. Right now I don't think they can say to people 'This is what we're basing your valuation or this is what we're basing your share of taxes on.'"

A matter of trust

O'Donnell said, to him, the issue boiled down to a matter of trust, fairness and equality of the town's taxes.

"I think it's important that people have a real sense of confidence in the records," he said. "If they can have that confidence, then they're going to believe there's a measure of fairness in the process. If you don't have those records, there can be a sense of distrust. If you have nothing to go over with people, then what is there to show them the process is fair? What people see has a lot to do with how much confidence they have in the system. I don't think there's any foundation to (the town's current tax) information."

Selectman Marie Bartlett said Monday she was hesitant to comment on the issue without first discussing it at last night's selectmen's meeting (too late to report on here).

Bartlett did say, however, that she was appalled at the thought of paying to have properties in town reevaluated.

"It would cost the taxpayers a lot of money to have the entire town reevaluated," Bartlett said. "The town and the taxpayers have already paid for information we have not received (from Dunham) and now we may have to pay again."

Bartlett added that she thought taxes paid by individual taxpayers are probably based on equitable value assessments.

She said the state Bureau of Taxation has never questioned the town's taxing practices.

As soon as O'Donnell's information on new constructions and additions has been entered into the town's computer system and proofed, Bartlett said, the selectmen will set the town's tax rate for this year.

The selectmen are planning to meet with O'Donnell within the next few weeks.

No more mud slinging please

Ex-tax assessor Dunham said he's tired of reading newspaper reports about the condition of his records.

"I really don't want to comment," Dunham said. "This issue should be laid to rest. I did my job and I took the evaluations up (to the town office) like I was asked. I shouldn't be dragged through the mud in the newspapers."

MURDER SUSPECT--David Chapman of Gilead is led Thursday from the Oxford County Jail in South Paris to his court arraignment. He is charged with the murder in connection with the shooting of his neighbor, Richard Hutchins, in Gilead on Oct. 9. Escorting Chapman are Deputy Paul Reynolds, Chief Deputy Jim Davis and Jail Administrator Capt. Ernest Martin. Chapman was denied bail Monday by District Court Judge John Sheldon and remains in custody at the Oxford County Jail.

Murder

As to whether or not the charge against Chapman should be murder or manslaughter, Sheldon ruled that evidence presented at the hearing showed that "Richard Hutchins was murdered... and that the evidence supported 'a murder to a probability.'"

Sheldon said further that evidence presented in the testimony of Chapman's girlfriend, Caroline J. Sweetser, with whom Chapman lived, showed, "He left (his residence) with anger. He left with the means to cause the death of a human being and a death ensued... The probability supports murder."

In denying bail, Sheldon cited Chapman's previous criminal record, which dates from 1975 and includes convictions for arson, terrorizing and reckless conduct, as well as a 1991 conviction for criminal mischief in which he slashed the tires on the Bethel police chief's car.

"Before us is a list of violent crimes and malicious behavior," Sheldon said. In denying bail, Sheldon said Chapman should be considered a risk to the community.

Sweetser, with David Chapman looking directly at her, testified that Chapman had returned to their home around 11 p.m. on Oct. 8. She said he appeared angry and did not say anything to her.

She testified that she heard Chapman say to someone on the phone, "Cut my tires, huh?" She said Chapman hung up the phone telling her, "Richie's on his way over here to cut my tires!"

Sweetser said that while she did not see Chapman remove the 12-gauge shotgun from the home, she heard him loading it in their bedroom and said the gun was not in the house after Chapman left.

She said after Chapman left she called Richie Hutchins and told him Chapman was on his way over to his house with a gun.

Sweetser said Hutchins "wasn't calm, he was hyper," when he said to her "Is that right?" She said, "The phone went click and that was it."

Sweetser also testified Monday that Chapman returned to their house less than half an hour later telling her, "Richie's dead." He either said I shot him or I got him, I can't remember which."

Sheldon sentenced Chapman to 60 days at the Oxford County Jail and revoked his probation for his Oct. 15 admission that he violated his probation by drinking alcohol.

Judge Sheldon said, "based on the thrust of the testimony... it appears alcohol's been used as an excuse or mitigation for murder."

Jenness said after the court proceeding that his client "is offering to allow the Attorney General's Office" to sit down with him and allow him to explain just what happened the night Hutchins died. Jenness said Chapman wants a chance to meet with officials from the Attorney General's office "to explain what occurred--that neither a murder nor a manslaughter occurred."

Jenness told the judge that the state did not take into consideration "the culpable state of mind" of Chapman when it brought the charge of murder.

Planners

The planners also last week approved Carl Hansen's plan to convert the Lowell property adjacent to the Mountain View Mall to office and apartment space.

Hansen plans to put a parking lot in between the two properties to meet the town's parking requirements.

Also approved last week were an amendment to Jeff Parson's site plan for the Ta-Ka-Radi building in West Bethel. The amendment will allow existing retail space to be converted to a 30-seat restaurant.

An amendment to the site plan for Skidder's Deli on Main Street was also received final approval last week. The amendment clears the way for Rick Boucher to convert a garage at the site to mountain bike and telemark ski shop.

GUIDANCE PARENTS' NIGHT--The Telstar High School Guidance Department recently hosted a parent night at the high school. More than 60 parents and teachers attended. The evening's agenda included a video on teenage and parent communication, group discussions and an overview of high school guidance services.

This past week was a short one for students. The extended weekend included our first ever before rank card parent conference. We felt it was very successful. Teachers explained their goals and expectations, and there was a chance for both teachers and parents to express any questions, comments or concerns.

We are welcoming three new students: Alicia Smith, grade six and T.J. Newell and Dean Smith, grade three.

These new students, as well as lots of West Paris children are looking forward to the second annual Halloween Party. This will be held on Saturday, Oct. 31, from 6 to 7:30 p.m. in the school gym. Preschoolers through grade six are included. However, parents are asked to accompany the little ones. There will be a pumpkin contest. This year we are asking that the pumpkins be brought in during school hours on Friday, or between 9 and 10 a.m. on Saturday. Plans are to have the pumpkin judging done before the party. Halloween night there will be games, prizes, candy and just plain fun.

Autumn news from Mrs. Loper's first grade is our feature this week. In honor of Fire Prevention Week the class has talked about home fire drills and having a special place to meet outside in case of fire. They enjoyed their visit from Forest Ranger, Bob Ripley and Smokey Bear. Mr. Ripley showed a film about the life of Smokey Bear and talked about fire safety. Stories read about fire prevention include, The Fire Cat, Great Big Fire Engine Book, and Fire Fighters.

The class is learning about Columbus, who he was and why we remember him. They are making Columbus hats and singing Brave Columbus. Special books include, Columbus, The Voyage of Columbus (in his own words from his log), and Christopher Columbus.

This is the time of year when the first-graders learn all about apples and Johnny Appleseed. They are mapping his journey around the United States, reading several versions of his life, making apple crowns, apple prints, and apple sauce. Volunteer, Mrs. Sweett, is helping with the applesauce. The

As always the class is learning about autumn and its changes. They are observing and writing about what they see, making collections of fall things, leaves, seeds, fruits. They are creating leaf art with rubbings. They are learning the poem, Down, Down. They go for walks and look for signs of fall. They will be graphing information about leaves for math. And, like the rest of us, they are looking forward to Halloween.

A few other notes of interest: The kindergarten has begun to work with the alphabet letters. Danielle Farrar is the first star of the week in grade two. Scary stories, skeletal systems, bones and scarecrows are keeping the third-graders busy. The fourth-graders are learning the 16 Counties Song. MY fifth-graders have received their first pen pal letters of the year, and have started their replies. The sixth-graders are reading Shadow Shark and Beyond the Reef.

Information should be coming home soon about school pictures, school T-shirts and sweatshirts. A school handbook has been sent home. Check with your child's teacher if you have not received one. Our News 'n' Notes should be coming home every week also.

Yates

Yates maintained in her suit that her suspension was unwarranted because another student involved in the incident went unpunished. She also claimed the SAD 44 bus rule at the time of the incident allowed for students to be prohibited from riding the bus as discipline for bus rule infractions--but did not authorize suspension from school.

The report that led to Yates' suspension stated that Yates and two other high school girls were writing "dirty" notes to some middle school girls in front of them.

When Yates' tried to retrieve the notes, a middle school girl "hit her in the face." Yates responded by slapping the girl and grabbing and threatened another student, the report states.

Yates denied she wrote the notes and threatened a student. She admitted to striking back at the middle school girl after being hit first.

Yates said she wants the incident and resulting disciplinary measures removed from her record.

A judge will decide whether to uphold the school board's disciplinary action in the matter or to overrule it.

Both sides then have the option to appeal the judge's decision, Howe said.

SAD 44 Superintendent Dewaine Craig said he had no comment on the case.

Voting for their favorite--books

While Americans are pondering over Bush, Clinton or Perot for president, Crescent Park School students will be learning about the election process by reading, nominating and campaigning for their favorite books over the next few weeks.

The Elect to Read program began at CPS this week. On Nov. 4, CPS will hold a primary election for the school's favorite books. Students will register to vote prior to the primary at special election headquarters set up in the hallway. When students register to vote they will nominate their favorite books.

All nominated books will then go on the official primary ballot. Students will vote for two choices in each of the following categories: fiction, non-fiction and picture book.

The top five books in each category will move onto the ballot for general election, which is scheduled for Nov. 20.

Students will also campaign for their personal favorites. Campaign slogans, jingles, poster and flyers can be developed.

A preschool list of books will also be available for the primary election. Parents of preschoolers may help their child vote.

Students will cast their final votes on an official ballot. A victory party will be held with refreshments for everyone. Students will be urged to dress up as a president or as a character from their favorite book for this celebration.

Community members are also urged to participate in the program, according to CPS Principal David Murphy. Anyone interested can contact the school for more information.

Elect to Read is a follow up to the school's Million Minutes of Reading program held two years ago, Murphy said.

In the Elect to Read program, every time a book is read, students will receive a star to hang on the wall in CPS' hallway. The books will also be entered in a personal campaign log. The logs will be turned in at the end of the program. Students may also log books that are read to them.

"This is an excellent opportunity for families to once again focus on the importance of reading," Murphy said, "and at the same time to make students more aware of the election process."

Carole and Albert Nelson Jr. hosted a cookout Sunday here at their home for about 20 friends and families who have helped her in her florist shop in Rumford. They all enjoyed a nice get-together and lots of delicious food.

We attended the Fryeburg Fair and we were all thankful that it didn't rain as it looked as if it might.

Abdul and Sharon Traish from Belmont, Mass. and family were at their cottage at Lake Keowaydin this past weekend. Mr. and Mrs. Mohamed Huneedy and family were their guests for the weekend and they took in the Fair. Little Nawal stayed with me on Saturday and she is so much fun. She is almost two years old. Eric Nelson from Mechanic Falls worked for his grandfather piling wood on Monday.

On Tuesday, Kate Flynn, myself, Ralph and Harriett Brown attended the Oxford County Republican supper and meeting at the Franklin Grange Hall in Bryant Pond. This was a good supper and meeting and the special guest speaker was Gordon Smith, lobbyist for the Maine Medical Association and chairman of the Governor's Commission on Smoking or Health. It was noted that the picnic held recently was a success and that things at the Fair booth went really good.

Hugh Roak was the winner of the 50/50 raffle of the evening. All the candidates were pleased with all the support they are getting from the area people.

On Tuesday evening the Knight Riders Snowmobile Club held their monthly meeting at the Stoneham Fire Station with Eben Harmon presiding.

The new trails to be made and the club trip to Pittsburg, N.H. was discussed at length. It was voted to get the new regional maps of the surrounding area. At the next meeting the winter calendar of events will be made up. We need members, attendance, comments and input on these matters. The 100 Booster Club tickets are now available and out it anyone is interested in getting one. There will be weekly prizes for 10 weeks. These are available from any member of the club.

Pine Tree Paving Co. has been hot-topping for the town of Stoneham on Butters Hill Road and the Bartlettboro Road this past week.

Laurence Dammun has had a new furnace installed on Tuesday of this week.

The hunter's supper will be held at the East Stoneham Congregational Church on Nov. 5.

Gladys Kilgore has received word that her nephew, Paul Taylor had his operation and is now at his home in Nashua, N.H. He has a trained nurse and has to report to the doctor's office every day, and seems to be getting along pretty good.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Bancroft were in Portland last Friday.

Visitors here on Monday were Mrs. Winnie Wike of Gardiner, her daughter Mrs. Connie Sukeforth and two girls Jessica and Courtney of Camden. Connie and the girls will return to Italy this week where her husband is stationed.

The Newry Community Church Ladies Circle met at president Sylvia Wight's residence on Oct. 9. A luncheon preceded the meeting, business was accomplished. It was voted to give the bride and groom, Nancy and Peter Anderson a wedding gift. The Circle decided to have no meetings during the winter months. The next meeting will probably be around April 1993. The meeting was adjourned and coffee and dessert were served.

The Newry Mothers' Club met Monday, Oct. 12 at the Town Building with president Eleanor Davis presiding. It opened with a prayer by Gil Seeley. Business was accomplished. There will be a Halloween Party for the children put on by the recreation committee. Watch the paper for time and place. The mystery prize was won by Sylvia Wight. A possible food sale on Nov. 13.

Karlene Bachelder read an article on the word Up, like What's Up? The next meeting will be Nov. 9 with Nancy Wight, Sylvia Wight and Gil Seeley on the snack committee. Meeting was adjourned and coffee, etc. was enjoyed.

Howard Ellingwood of West Paris and Perley Ellingwood of Dixfield visited Thursday, Oct. 9 with their nephew, Frank Lowell.

Columbus Day callers at the Frank Lowell's were Mr. and Mrs. Lend say Lau-Tong and son Charles of Montreal, Canada and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lowery of Gorham, N.H.

Earl and Betty Wyman of Stratton, Joan and Vernon Bean of Rangeley were visiting with Ras and Karlene Bachelder recently.

Their daughter-in-law Colleen Bachelder and her children Krista, Jenny, Holly and Aaron Jr. came to visit with their grandparents on Sunday, Oct. 11.

It has been said that autumn comes at its own pace in this valley because it's protected by surrounding ridges. But its pace seemed swifter this year, ever since Oct. 1, within a few days the trees became fired with blazing light.

All this last week I have been to places to look at the beauty. One of the most interesting was a ride to the remains of the village of Snow's Falls on the backside of the river where I have never been. Two friends, Larry and Jean took me there. I'm trying to get more history on it before I write more.

Today I'll write local. The leaves range from citron to copper, saffron to gilt, reds, and yellows. All glow with light.

The pond lies below me to the west; its waters ripple with the sunlight of this bright October morning, while the forest blazes in its autumnal coat of many colors.

Later Ann took the truck and drove Fay and me to Patch Mountain.

In the steep and stonier hill country the view was magnificent. There was sadness, too, for houses and barns once occupied on farms that I still remember were there for one or two generations, are now gone with just cellar holes left. The stone walls are still there running through the second growth woods. These are most eloquent, as they outline woods and fields everywhere. They were dry built, not rigid with mortar, but kept in place only by skillful arrangement and balance of their rocky elements. They were true country walls made of rough stone just as they were carted from the fields in an ox-drawn drag and piled into straight forwardly functional fences.

We looked down on our valley and over to Overset Mountain as well as others.

As we left we took a last look into the world of glory complete and brilliant all the way home.

The Historical Society encourages you to consider the following comment by Hugh M. Miller. "The study of music history involves knowledge about the principal composers in each period and the special contribution which each made to the literature of music."

The Historical Society will hold an open house Nov. 8 from 1:00-7:00 p.m. Everyone come! The November program will be on Eskimos.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Andrews will have been to their Aunt Olive Tuesday, Friday and Monday the 19th too. They are also trying to see their daughter Nancy Smith who is on the sick list. They have been real good to me since I've been ill for a long period of time. I just hope they don't get tired out from all this travel back and forth. There is always a lot to do around a big home. I realize it and wish I could do as I used to do around the place. I love my home.

I haven't heard from anyone on local news.

The Grange at Bryant Pond put on a supper for the Republicans gathering at the Grange Hall this week.
Lettie Brooks cooked for it and then went up to help on the serving of the meal. Evelyn Bean was the head of the meal.

News? What is it and where is it?
Well, the debates are news at present but all this has been hashed over before. The points seem to be who is more reliable? Whom do you trust?

Whom do you want to make decisions for you? Is Clinton experienced enough? Does he know how to spend money correctly? New taxes will break the nation which he advocates doing. On raising the old ones isn't good either. Where is he going to get money to fling to the poor people right and left but tax us all again?

Now President Bush isn't all there is running the government. The Democratic legislature is in there voting on the running of the government also. Don't blame it on President Bush entirely. He had help in all decisions.

Anyone having items of interest for this column contact me and if because of my absent-mindedness or preoccupation I miss getting it in, don't be discouraged but try again.
Some people vehemently object to having their names in the paper and unless you tell me, either I don't know the news or don't know whether you object to it being printed here.

Our sympathies to Richard and Ellie LeComte. Each had a severe strain in caring for Mary during her last several years of illness and Mary was fortunate to have had these capable and caring people nearby.

Betty Jordan has been under the weather but not missed a day of

The theory of evolution taught more as fact than fiction is so ridiculous it is most unbelievable but so is some human behavior like saying abortion is okay because it is a woman's body to do with as she chooses. Do women then sometimes have two heads, four arms, four legs, two hearts, two torsos and when half of these are cut up and destroyed she is still a complete person? And how can Christopher Columbus be responsible for all the ills done by thousands of persons during the course of 500 years following the day he bumped into some islands off America's East Coast while he was on his way to India? Some folk are out on a limb and upside down which makes the monkey idea a wee bit credible.

Jeanne Abbott of East Sumner was

Telstar middle school teams go to playoffs
Both the Telstar Middle School soccer and field hockey teams finished second in the Western Maine Sandy/Andy League.

The soccer team was scheduled to play the semi-final game against Mountain Valley Tuesday night. The winner will play again Thursday night at Mountain Valley Middle School.

The Telstar girls are scheduled to play Tripp at home Wednesday (today) or Thursday at 3 p.m. As of late Tuesday afternoon, the schedule had not been settled. Anyone interested in attending the game can contact the middle school at 824-3596. If the girls win, they will travel to the championship game next Tuesday. Telstar Athletic Director Carroll Higgins said the time and place for Tuesday's game has not been set.

PLAYOFF BOUND--Telstar High School's Angie Mills charges the ball, followed by Misty Hutchins and Noelle Gauthier, during last week's game against Jay. More grass, less tar planned for CPS building site

By WENDY HANSKOM

Plans for the addition to the Crescent Park School now call for less paving and more greenery.

Superintendent Dewaine Craig showed the SAD 44 school board proposed landscaping changes at last week's regular meeting.

Craig said engineers from Rea Designs of Auburn were worried that if tarred areas were not reduced, the site might have problems with runoff during heavy rains and spring melts.

In order to deal with runoff from the banks behind the school, Craig said, a smaller area will be tarred and more grass, shrubs and trees will be planted.

"With this plan there will be the same or less runoff than we have now," Craig said. "We're trying to create as much green space as we can."

Plans have also been dropped to cut into the bank behind the new addition to make room for a paved lot where parents could pick up students.

Instead, parents will be asked to pick up their children along the east side of the current building (toward Bethel Park Apartments). Buses will continue to pick students up in front of the current building, as they do now.

The building construction timetable has also been pushed forward.

The project should go before the Bethel planning board in March and be put out to bid in mid-June. Groundbreaking will probably be in mid-July, Craig said.

The school should still be ready for students by September of 1994, he said.

In other business last week, the board voted to allow students to refuse food offerings in the district's breakfast program. Finance Committee Chairman Merton Brown of Bethel said the move will save food waste.

The board also approved Katherine Bennett, Kris Percival and Malcolm Turney as substitute teachers.

proving all season, "but we need to have the offense hit the boards more often if we're going to win in the playoffs," she said.

If the girls win tomorrow, they will face undefeated Yarmouth High School in the semi-finals next Wednesday at Yarmouth.

Last week the Rebels, who are the two-time defending Mountain Valley Conference champions, lost the MVC title to Class B Leavitt.

Telstar beat Leavitt earlier in the season, but lost 2-0 on Friday.

No post-season Telstar soccer
The Rebel booters posted a winning record this season, but won't see any play-off action.

The 6-4-2 Rebels finished twelfth in Western Maine Class C competition.

The Rebels finished their season last week with two losses. Last Tuesday, Telstar held Mountain Valley scoreless until the last eight minutes of the game, but the Falcons finally managed to get the one and only goal past goalkeeper Adam Newell, who had nine saves in the tightly contested game.

On Thursday, the boys lost 3-0 to Carrabec. The Cougars scored once in the first half and twice in the second. The Rebels made 14 shots on goal.

Upton planner faces wildlife charges

By ANDREW TURNER

The chairman of Upton's town planning board is scheduled to appear in Rumford District Court Nov. 17 at a suppression hearing on wildlife charges, according to court documents.

Michael Lewitt, 35, of Upton has been charged with six separate charges stemming from incidents that allegedly occurred in Upton and North Andover recently.

Lewitt, who is also the town's road commissioner, was arraigned Oct. 13 at Rumford District Court and pleaded not guilty to the charges.

"I don't know, I have nothing to say," Lewitt said in a phone interview Friday concerning the charges.

Maine State Warden Rick Mills, who was the primary investigating officer, would not comment on the charges. He refused to say when and where the alleged violations took place.

Pursuing good health

Chiropractic care may have a part in kids' medical regimen

The results of a study published in the Journal of Chiropractic Research reveal that "children raised under chiropractic care are less prone to infectious processes."

The study's premise was to compare the health status of children raised under the health care models of chiropractic and allopathic medicine. (Allopathy is defined as the system of medicine in which the use of drugs is directed to producing effects in the body that will directly oppose and so alleviate the symptoms of a disease).

The study further states that the infectious processes include "otitis media (ear infections) and tonsillitis, and that their (children's) immune systems are better able to cope with allergens such as pollen, weeds, grasses, etc. as compared to children raised under allopathic care."

"Furthermore, there also is a significant decreased history of antibiotic therapy use among the chiropractic children, thus indicating a lower susceptibility to bacterial infections as a result of greater immune system response."

Two hundred pediatricians and 200 chiropractors were chosen for a survey. Their responses were used for the study. The work was supported by Palmer College of Chiropractic, Davenport, Iowa.

"Usable responses with data for 171 children were received from 35 percent of the chiropractors. The usable responses received from the pediatricians totaled 36 percent, representing 161 children," according to the study.

Agreeing with the study is Dr. Joseph F. DeMarco, a chiropractor in Bethel. He explained that more and more children are now being brought in for chiropractic care. Dr. DeMarco feels that this is due to people shifting their feelings from "the doctor is responsible for my health" to "I am responsible for my health."

People are more aware of the things that will keep them healthy. In looking at the study, He feels "it gives people some more information to base their children's health care decisions on. If they are looking at the best way to maintain a healthy immune system, chiropractic care, plus all the things that go along with good health, are needed."

The young chiropractor has seen children whose parents are his patients, and also those who are not clinic clients. The majority of the latter usually bring in their children when they have tried a lot of different health care professionals or other alternatives.

Some of Dr. DeMarco's young patients are brought in for regular spinal checkups, while others see him for a variety of maladies. With babies, these include colic and spitting up food. Older children's problems target upper respiratory maladies and sports related injuries. Adolescents might visit the clinic complaining of headaches and neck aches.

The youngest infant Dr. DeMarco has seen was just one day old. The baby was brought in for a check up on the way home from the hospital. The chiropractor explained that the birthing process is rough on the infant as well as the mother, especially if forceps are used.

He quotes research that shows autopsies on a group of infants who died from Sudden Infant Death Syndrome (SIDS) "showed 95 percent of them had a bone out of place in the spine that put pressure on the nerve going to the breathing apparatus."

In referring to the published study, Dr. DeMarco concluded, "this does not so much downgrade the medical profession. This is not my desire. My job is to offer an alternative health care system that will allow the body to stay healthier longer. I don't berate anyone for seeing any other doctors."

A Spinal Check-Up for your child could be one of the most important Check-Ups in his or her life.

The spine is the lifeline of the body. Inside the spinal column is the spinal cord, a bundle containing billions of nerve fibers that will travel to every part of your child's body, sending messages and energy from the brain that regulate your child's health.

If there is any nerve blockage along the spinal cord, any nerve damage, then a state of dis-ease will develop. Dis-ease causes a generalized weakening of your child's body, lowered resistance to disease, and is a major contributor of body malfunction and sickness.

JACKSON SILVER POST #68

Members of the American Legion, Jackson Silver Post #68, along with members of the Auxiliary met at their meeting hall on the Gore Road in Locke Mills on Thursday, Oct. 15 to honor the four delegates that each sponsored to Boys and Girls State last June. The two young men were Corey Campbell, son of Joseph Campbell of Bethel and Carol Campbell of Bryant Pond; and Deven Benson, son of Roger and Doreen Benson of South Woodstock. The two young ladies were Stacy House, daughter of Thomas and Pam House of Bryant Pond and Betsy Johnson, daughter of Jeff and Dorene Johnson also of Bryant Pond.

She is the only living charter member of Post Auxiliary; also from Post #68 was one of our oldest members, John Howe, post commander in 1947 and the past state commander and second district commander of the Department of State.

Mrs. Cummings took the opportunity of thanking those who made it possible for her to attend the State Convention in Ellsworth last June. She especially thanked Olive Risko, who drove her down. She gave a few details of the joy she received of being able to attend, especially at her age.

While at the convention, she was given a beautiful plaque in honor of her 50th anniversary as Dept. of State Auxiliary. She was also awarded a special citation, given to her and her departed husband by members of the State Legislature for the faithful service as members of Legion and Auxiliary for many years.

Opportunity was presented to each delegate to relate something of their experience at Boys and Girls State.

Stacy House stated it was all so new and large that it was kind of scary at first. She mentioned listening to different speakers including Gov. McKernan. Said she liked the talent show and learned a lot about being involved in elections.

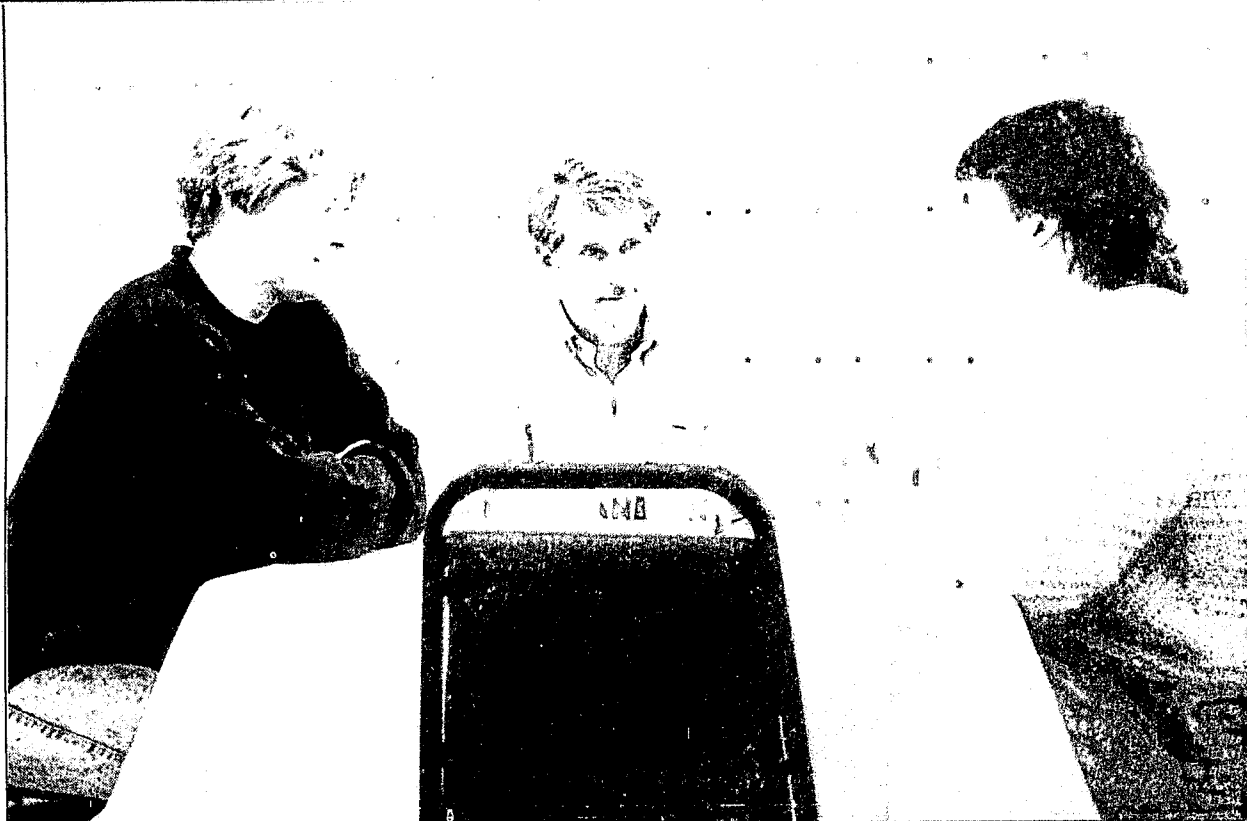

Betsy Johnson also indicated her appreciation of attending Girls State, saying it was "the highlight" of her summer vacation. She also said the thing that possibly stood out most in her mind was getting to meet so many different girls from other parts of the state. She further indicated that she learned much about competition from engaging in the sports program.

Shirley Williams, Dept. of State, Girls State Leader, thanked the Post for inviting her for the special occasion and mentioned her joy of working with the girls. She indicated further that the training they received was especially helpful at this particular time--preparing for state and national elections.

Deven Benson expressed his thanks for the opportunity of attending, indicating that he too learned much. Said he was elected to the "House of Representatives" from the "Town of King" and chosen captain of the baseball team.

Speaking first for the boys was Corey Campbell, who said he be-

A delicious old-fashioned boiled dinner was prepared and served by members of the Post, giving members of the Auxiliary time-off from the many such suppers they serve throughout the year.

The special occasion closed with a brief informal business meeting of the Post.

Jackson-Silver Unit

Following last week's annual dinner to honor Boys and Girls State delegates, both the Post and Unit met briefly for some business, which needed attention before the next regular meeting.

The Unit voted to accept the membership application of Lynn Cobb. With this new member and the dues collected since last meeting, the membership now stands at 59 paid up for 1993.

It was announced that the card and game party held on Oct. 11 netted $123 to be turned over to Special Olympics. Members will be attending the meeting of the Second District in Lisbon on the afternoon of Oct. 18 and the County Council meeting at Buckfield on Oct. 20.

An invitation to attend a Leadership Workshop being sponsored by the Foster-Carroll Unit of South Paris on Nov. 14 was read. This is a good opportunity for new members or any others to learn more about the Auxiliary and its programs. Members of this Unit who wish to know more about this Workshop or wish to attend should contact the Unit Secretary, Olive Risko.

The next regular meeting is Nov. 5.

Treatment of Psoriasis With Topical Steroids

Psoriasis (pronounced so-ri-ah-sis) is a thickening of skin with scaly, red or silver patches--either in localized areas or all over the body. This skin condition tends to run in families and occurs most often between the ages of 10 and 30. According to the AMA Family Medical Guide, the exact cause of psoriasis is not known. Instances of this condition can be triggered by emotional stress, damage to the skin, or a period of generally poor health.

Although there are many different and effective medicines used to control psoriasis, topical steroids are the first treatment choice recommended by many physicians. According to Dr. Irving Katz and colleagues writing in a recent issue of Patient Care, mid-potency topical steroids are preferred over super-potency steroids because of their effectiveness and lower incidence of adverse effects. Topical mid-potency steroids include 0.1% betamethasone valerate, 0.1% triamcinolone acetate, and 0.025% fluocinolone acetate.

Dr. Katz states that psoriasis on the face, in the body folds or in the area of the groin are best treated with low-potency topical steroids such as hydrocortisone. The super-potency steroids are recommended only for short term treatment due to a tendency of these agents to cause skin thinning with long-term use. Oral steroids are not recommended for psoriasis.

The Eleanor Gordon Guild started their new year with a potluck dinner at the Blake cottage on Songo Pond.

Evelyn Reed and Betty Blake were the hostesses. A bountiful meal was enjoyed by the 12 present. Dues were collected and reports read. Tentative plans for the new season were made.

Rotary Club notes

The Tuesday, Oct. 13 meeting was "Spouse's and Family Breakfast," we had quite a few guests. They included, Pattie Parsons, Gail Syska, Tom Reed, Randall Harris, Richard Penley, Sandy Dennis, Donna Forrest, Krissie Elsemer, Linda Saunders, Linda and Jam, Caron, Sarah Craig, Robin Gundersen, Cyndy Moxie, Kay Chabourne, Billy and Erin Murphy, Daniel and Brian Zinchuk, and Rotary guests, Don King, Gohar N.H., and Greg Davis and Mil Thurston, Rumford Club.

Rotary information was given by Scott Dennis who reminded club members on the method of proposing new members.

The guest speaker was Jeff Keen, director of personnel at Sunday River Ski Resort. He gave some Sunday River history. It was founded in 1958 and sold to Shebourne Corp. (the parent company of Killington) in 1972. In 1975, Les Otten was appointed General Manager and in 1980 he purchased Sunday River. At that time, it had one double chair and four t-bars. Today Sunday River has 72 trails, 12 chair lifts and has 580 acres of skiable terrain. There are four day lodges and five cafeterias. There are currently 160 year-round employees and there were 1000 seasonal employees in 1992. There are seven major departments including mountain operations, base operations, control, development, marketing, corporate offices and hotel and condominium operations. Sunday River has been a good neighbor environmentally and economically and has been tremendously supportive in the educational arena, as Les Otten founded Project Opportunity which provides scholarship funds to students in the Bethel Region. We should be proud that we have such a strong, community based business in our area!

A reminder that the 75th Anniversary Social is Saturday, Oct. 24 at the Bethel Inn and it is a four-course social, with Bridgton, Rumford, C

BETHEL SENIOR CITIZENS

Bethel Senior Citizens met Oct. 14 at the Pleasant River Grange at West Bethel with 66 present.

President Helen Saunders conducted the meeting. Sarah Stevens reported 100 under 80, and one over 90. Reports were read and noted.

Thirty-six pairs of mittens were turned in. Birthdays celebrated were Bea Brown, Randal Stevens, Madeline Hunt, Georgia Packard, Opal Tyler, Muriel Hart, Phyllis Dock and Florence Merrill. They were honored by ice cream and a cake made and donated by Rachel MacKay.

A dried flower wreath made and donated by Eva Twitchell and raffled by Joan Royer was won by Rudy Royer and Mrs. Bethel won a door prize.

A poem read by Lindley Wieden and a moment of silence, honoring the memory of Gladys Cross, a charter member who passed on recently, was observed. There are now two charter members, Sarah Stevens and Barbara Douglass.

Mr. Wieden read several anecdotes and reported on the recent bus trip to St. Johnsbury, Vt. to view the foliage, visit the Fairbanks Museum, lunch at the Lincoln Inn and shop at The Farmers' Daughter. They reported the driver had to brake on the way home--not for a moose but for a bull. Another bus trip will be planned in the future.

Mr. Wieden also reported several meetings in the near future.

Tuesday, Oct. 27--Western Maine Area on Aging annual meeting at the Lewiston/Auburn College, on Westminster Street the legislative candidates will talk and answer questions.

Tuesday, Oct. 20--Great Falls Plaza program called "Legal Matters for Older People" will include health, investments, legal advance planning and taxes.

Call Mr. Wieden for more information on any of these worthwhile programs.

Community Concepts can offer suggestions on adaptive equipment, low-cost drugs and fuel assistance in some cases.

Harold Powell explained possible plans for the Christmas party and solicited opinions.

The next meeting will be Nov. 11 at the Congregational Church in Bethel.

Randal Stevens offered the blessing followed by a super New England boiled dinner by the grange and a talk by Dr. Kenneth Hamilton. The group was particularly attentive to his explanation of his work and the organization HOPE and the meaning of life. The foliage, dinner and program all made for a memorable meeting.

LEN CABRAL

Mahoosuc Arts Council

Many thanks to all the volunteers and sponsors who contributed to the success of the Mahoosuc Arts' Hike/Walk/Run fundraiser. Without your assistance we couldn't have pulled it off. A special thanks to Sunday River and John DeVito and Wendy McInerney for their superb organizational efforts. The event went over well as both competitors and spectators seemed to enjoy themselves.

Mahoosuc Arts' up and coming performer, arriving in Bethel Oct. 27, is Len Cabral, the versatile storyteller. He will spend two days in the SAD 44 elementary schools. Tuesday, Oct. 27, he will visit Crescent Park, where he will do one assembly program and three workshops. Wednesday, Oct. 28, Cabral will visit Woodstock in the morning, where he will present one assembly and one workshop. In the afternoon, that same day, he'll travel to Andover, where he will do another assembly and one workshop.

Len Cabral is a charismatic man of many words. As performer, teacher, and workshop educator, he uses poetry, song, movement, and humor to bring out the child in all of us and creates a setting for the imagination to soar. We look forward to his arrival.

Music festival is Saturday

The second annual Tourmaline Music Festival will be held Saturday evening in Rumford. The festival will feature a wide variety of entertainment.

Starting off the evening will be the local rock band, Sky Frontier. Following Sky Frontier will be a performance by Thea Dunn, formerly with Sweet Clover. Thea is a singer/songwriter and was the beneficiary of last year's benefit festival during her treatment for cancer.

After Thea, country singer/songwriter Sam Chapman will perform some of his original songs. Following Sam will be the debut performance of the rock and reggae band The Wobblies.

Maine humorist Joe Perham will follow The Wobblies. Perham has released 12 albums of Maine humor, and two of folk tales.

During the intermission there will be drawing for prizes "raffle-style." Some of the prizes include tourmaline earrings, a stained glass window, cassettes and CDs, Indian jewelry, day passes at Sunday River Ski Resort, Maine Nordic Ski Council Gold Pass, dinner for two at the Sudbury Inn, an overnight stay and continental breakfast at The Four Seasons, gift certificates from many area businesses for a wide variety of merchandise, and more surprises. Refreshments will also be available.

Following the intermission, Hit 'n Run will be playing the blues, Chicago-style. Following Hit 'n Run, Sonny Probe brings his brand of unusual humor, comedy, and music to the stage. Sonny's latest album features a song titled "Rumford Girls" which has been getting quite a bit of radio play.

Finishing up the evening will be Peace Corpse, a rock band from Rumford.

The Tourmaline Music Festival is a benefit for Jason Rowland, who was stabbed in an incident at Dunkin' Donuts in Manchester, N.H. over Labor Day weekend. Jason is from the Rumford area, and has played drums with many of the artists who will be appearing at the festival.

The festival will begin at 7 p.m. on Saturday, Oct. 24 and is being held at the Muskie Auditorium, Mountain Valley High School, Rumford. Tickets are $5 for adults, and $3 for students.

WOODSTOCK HIGH SCHOOL CLASS OF 1933 REUNION

To observe their up-coming 60th anniversary of graduation from Woodstock High School, the class of 1933 met at the home of Eva Billings Twitchell on Oct. 11.

Rachel Forbes was the only one who was not located.

Following luncheon, a social hour was enjoyed with tales of days gone by and a brief account of the alumni's lives past and picture-taking.

Roger Hanscom offered a prayer for those who have passed away: Parker Allen, Albert Brooke, Donald Whitman, Gwendolyn Swan, Flora Swan, Mildred Noyes York, and Winnifred Bryant Hanscom.

The class of 1933 wishes to thank Elton Cole and Percy Monk, who gave them a tour of the new town buildings, and Larry Billings, curator, Francis Brooks, president, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Burnham, Mr. and Mrs. Earle Noyes, who opened the historical museum building so the group could view exhibits, pictures and artifacts of historical value to everyone.

HOW TO CUT YOUR 1992 TAX BILL

This article is brought to you by Jane D. Gray, CPA

Review your 1992 tax situation while there is still time to take action that could cut your tax bill. Here are some options to consider:

• If you have shares in an S corporation that will have a 1992 loss, review your tax basis before year-end. Insufficient basis will limit your loss deduction, but you can rectify the situation before year-end with shareholder loans to the company or contributions to capital.

• If you're planning to purchase equipment for your business, consider doing so before year-end. You can then expense up to $10,000 of your equipment purchase. Be aware, however, of the expensing limitations: your deduction will be limited if you have less than $10,000 of business income, if your equipment purchases for the year exceed $200,000, or if your purchase is a automobile.

• Take advantage of the tax deferral available in retirement plans. If a 401(k) is available to you at work, make as large a contribution as possible. If you're self-employed, look into setting up a Keogh plan before December 31st. And if you qualify for a deductible IRA contribution, you have until April 15, 1993, to establish an IRA and make a 1992 contribution.

• Avoid any tax underpayment penalties by reviewing your withholding or tax estimates now. Penalties for underwithholding early in the year can be corrected by increasing your withholding before year-end. If you make quarterly tax estimates, be aware that taxpayers who earn more than $75,000 a year whose 1992 income is $40,000 or more than their 1991 income are subject to new rules this year. Get details, and make adjustments while there is still time to avoid or minimize penalties for underpayment.

Free Shorelot?

Are you looking for a lakefront lot where it's safe to swim, sail and boat? If so, Lake McWain may be just for you. The lake is over two miles long and there is no public access, so boat traffic is limited. The lot is level, it's lake bottom is sandy and the lot faces west for afternoon sun and evening sunsets. The town is Waterford with it's country inns and fine dining. Finally, the lot is on a year 'round, private road within easy commute to Sunday River Skiway.

Best of all, buy a one acre, $95,000, shore lot on Lake McWain and get the adjacent $65,000, one acre shore lot FREE. Thus for an investment of $95,000 you get about 2.3 acres of land with 320 feet of frontage on McWain. No catches or gimmicks, just be the first to buy before October 31, 1992. THOUGHTS FROM THE Pastor's Study

The Bethel Area Clergy Association, with the help of pastors of surrounding churches, brings you these meditations. Not based on any set theme, they will be individual for each pastor. It is hoped you will find in these words, comfort and help for your daily life.

The Scriptures record the words of the prophet Isaiah about the Lord Jesus Christ: "A bruised reed shall he not break, and the smoking flax shall he not quench; he shall bring forth judgment unto truth. He shall not fail nor be discouraged, till he have set judgment in the earth; and the isles shall wait for his law" (Isaiah 42:3, 4 and Matt. 12:18-21).

In these inspired words, given by God in the person of the Holy Spirit, we can find two truths which give us direction in these dark days. First, it is clear that the Lord Jesus Christ will not break the bruised reed or quench the smoking flax. This brings hope to every true Christian in time of weakness or discouragement. If the life of God is within you through salvation in the Lord Jesus Christ, though you may be a bruised reed, realize that the Lord will deal tenderly with you for He truly is the Great Physician. The flame of your spiritual life may be just a smoking flax at this time, but you can rest assured that your spiritual candle will not be quenched. If you are born of the Spirit of God, you can take comfort in knowing that the Holy Spirit will work mightily within you once again. God will grant you, "according to the riches of his glory, to be strengthened with might by his Spirit in the inner man" (Ephesians 3:16).

Be encouraged, dearly beloved child of God, for your Heavenly Father loves you with an everlasting love. "Being confident of this very thing, that he which hath begun a good work in you will perform it until the day of Jesus Christ" (Philippians 1:6).

The second truth that will strengthen the believer who may be discouraged is that the Lord Jesus Christ will one day bring forth judgment unto truth. He will set judgment in the earth. In other words, everyone and everything will be brought into the light of His perfectly accurate judgment. As we look around today, we hear conflicting opinions of what is right. Truly these days are like the times of the Old Testament Judges when everyone did that which was right in his or her own eyes. Because of this the people lived in confusion and sin and so it is in modern day America. Yet, we can be thankful for the steadfast illumination of the Word of God which is truly a "lamp unto our feet, and a light unto our path" (Psalm 119:105).

Do not let the dogmatic assertions of sinful men sway you, build your life on the solid foundation of God's unchanging Word. People may spurn the judgment of God, but that does not negate its certainty for it is appointed unto men once to die and then to face judgment. The truth about your life and about all the issues that are being discussed in our day will be crystal clear in that day of judgment. Are you absolutely ready to face this judgment? Jesus Christ said: "verily, verily, I say unto thee, except a man be born again, he cannot see the kingdom of God" (John 3:3). Who can stand in the fire of God's judgment?

No one, except the person who has bowed in humility at the Cross of Calvary to receive the forgiveness provided by the atoning death of God's provision of salvation, the Lord Jesus Christ. It is He who also said: "Verily, verily, I say unto you, he that heareth my word, and believeth on him that sent me, hath everlasting life, and shall not come into condemnation (or judgment); but is passed from death unto life" (John 5:24). If you truly know Christ you can draw strength from Him today and you can rest assured that you will be safe in the judgment to come. May we examine our lives in the light of Holy Scripture.

IN MEMORIAM

In Memory of Richie Hutchins

Here's to a guy we all called Hutch, we knew and loved him very much. Hard to believe it happened to you, for we never thought, but if we only knew.

It'll be hard to try to go on, because in our hearts we knew this was wrong.

We all thought you'd be around forever, you know everyday, just like the weather.

Oh Hutch, if we only knew, we would of all prayed, it wouldn't of been you. For your memory will always stay, that nobody can ever take away.
